You are invited to a special screening of "Nuclear Tipping Point."

[Time/Date/Location]

"Nuclear Tipping Point" is a documentary produced by the Nuclear Threat Initiative on today's global nuclear dangers. It includes conversations with four people who have been intimately involved in American diplomacy and national security: former Secretaries of State George Shultz and Henry Kissinger, former Secretary of Defense William Perry and former Senator Sam Nunn. In it, they talk about why we need to work toward a world without nuclear weapons and the practical steps needed to realize that vision. The film is introduced by General Colin Powell, narrated by actor Michael Douglas and includes interviews with Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger and former Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

I am hosting this event because I think this is an important issue that we, as citizens, should be engaged in. After the screening, we'll have dialogue and debate about the ideas presented in the movie. I look forward to seeing you!
